The reason for the hope that I have is my faith in God. But, more than that, the reason for the hope that I have is that I am convinced that there is scientific proof that there is a God. My faith in God came slowly over the course of nine months (like a baby in the womb) in 1996 until it came crashing into me like a bolt of lightning.

One of the great privileges of my job is that I get to participate on graduate student committees. Many times this allows me to get up close and personal with data sub-disciplines extend far from those of my particular expertise. You know that I have a fondness for fossils and the stories they tell.

Why I'm Not a Creationist (Anymore) | Joshua S. | First Things

Charles Darwin and those of similar materialistic belief seek to involve the fossil record in their philosophical faith. Upon close examination of the fossil record, even if we ignore that the flood described by Genesis is the most likely source, the fossils themselves testify to the accuracy of the Creation account while crying out the failure of Evolution as viable theory.
